

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a new antigenic class of avian reoviruses which are involved in enteric disease conditions in poultry. Moreover, the invention provides a vaccine for use in the protection of poultry against such disease conditions derived from the new type of 5 avian reoviruses.